

CASE STUDY

Unrivalled ironmongery expertise

Interior Designer, Izzy MacPhail, has been working with Oxford Ironmongery for the past 10 years, on a range of interior design projects in and around Oxford, from prestigious private households to contemporary cafés and chic B&B's.

PLANNING FOR A HIGH QUALITY FINISH

Izzy MacPhail will always have a clear concept in mind, and enhancing any design project with beautiful ironmongery is extremely rewarding. Aligned to this, Oxford Ironmongery's passion for styles and finishes offers proactive ideas and inspiration to suit any environment.

But the quality that really makes Oxford Ironmongery stand out from the crowd for Izzy, is their commitment to upfront planning. From site visits with architects, through to creation of a full door schedule, no detail is left to chance.

Izzy knows that building projects constantly face changes and unexpected challenges, however, working with experienced and knowledgeable teams, ensures that the right solution is identified quickly.

Chantelle's attention to detail makes a big difference to the accuracy of a project and in ensuring that each door, hinge, and fitting is absolutely appropriate to its situation and usage and avoids snags occurring after completion of a project, potentially affecting a good client relationship.

"Chantelle's knowledge is unbelievable, second to none in the industry, and this adds phenomenal value on-site in ensuring that our design vision comes to life throughout a property, without unexpected issues."
